ANTI-RAGGING CELL

CIRCULAR

GC/ARC/2020-2021/01

Dr.M.Selvarasu
Principal,

DATE: 22.07.2020

Greetings from Our College!

Your arrival to our academic community excites us. Now is the moment to start over, meet new people, and pursue scholarly interests. We want to be clear that ragging is strictly forbidden in order to provide a secure and enjoyable experience for everyone.

- This is to let all first-year students know that the following measures, among others, have been implemented to guarantee that there is no room for harassment on college campuses.
For this reason, the College established the Anti-Ragging Committee. The college website has uploaded the members' details for the Anti-Ragging Committee and Anti-Ragging Squad, making them easily accessible to students. In addition, the Anti-Ragging Squads were established with the intention of monitoring, stopping, and responding appropriately.
- The College website has all the information on the Anti-Ragging Squad. All faculty have already received copies of the lists.
- Students are now advised that they should not be reluctant to report any grievances originating from any type of misbehaviour by a fellow student to any member of the Anti-Ragging Committee or Squad.
- You can be confident that the authorities would take harsh measures against the perpetrators as soon as an incidence of this kind is confirmed.
- In order to provide juniors with unrestricted mobility inside the college campus, every effort is being made to prevent students from engaging in any behaviour that could be interpreted as harassment.
- If a student has any complaints or feels that they could be harassed, they should not hesitate to speak with any college official.
- Please contact the Convenor (Principal) and the Coordinator (Dr. A. Ramu at +91 8667671697 and Dr. S.Brindha at +91 904251406) if you have any issues.

Dear Students,

It's great to start college! But it's crucial to understand what ragging is before you get started. Any cruel behaviour, such as shouting, making someone perform awkward tasks, or even injuring them, is known as ragging. Although it may appear typical, it's actually a serious issue that could result in your expulsion from college or perhaps legal issues.

One could become so terrified and depressed from ragging that they give up on college. Nobody desires that! And the best part is, you can do something about it. Inform your dorm leader, a teacher, or a special committee against ragging if you witness someone getting ragged (most colleges have one). Even better, you may report it anonymously.

Anti- Ragging Cell-2020-2021
Report 2020-2021

Affidavit against discrimination is given to newly admitted students for the 2020–2021 academic year. Under penalty of law, each student is required to swear that they will not participate in or encourage ragging within the College. It is also made clear that any instances of ragging at the college will result in harsh consequences and legal action. There are numerous anti-ragging posters erected throughout the college grounds in an effort to raise awareness. A comprehensive orientation program covering the college's anti-ragging policies is provided to newly admitted students. This involves informing people about the Anti-Ragging helpline number and the Anti-Ragging reporting forms. For convenience, the website offers the anti-ragging committee's contact information in case of any ragging incidents. As a result, the committee has not heard from the students.

Justification:

The anti-ragging report and circular for the academic year 2020-2021 highlighted Ganesar College of Arts and Science's unwavering commitment to maintain a safe and respectful environment. By requiring affidavits against ragging and clearly communicating the severe consequences for such actions, the college emphasizes its zero-tolerance policy. The comprehensive orientation program, along with the widespread display of anti-ragging posters and accessible contact information for the Anti-Ragging Committee and Squad, ensures that students are well-informed and supported. These proactive measures, combined with the assurance of strict action against perpetrators, demonstrate the college's dedication to preventing ragging and fostering a positive and secure academic community. The absence of reported incidents reflects the effectiveness of these efforts and the college's success in creating a harassment-free environment for all students.
